

A Study On Educational Values Reflected Through Newspapers

Education has various means and modes to acquire knowledge. But knowledge alone does not make a perfect human being for the society. There need to be values with the acquisition of knowledge than only a man can become a human being. And the interesting thing is that values cant be taught. They can either be imbibed or developed through watching, listening and reading. Now another interesting point is that newspaper is such a medium of spreading knowledge which is circulated in our society in different languages and a nominal price. So, the author finds it to be a pivot element in spreading knowledge and developing values in the readers. This book focuses on the values reflected in the newspaper. The author believes that different values are emerging while reading a newspaper. This research work finds the prime values reflected in the newspapers as opined by the readers. Therefore, there is a great responsibility on the shoulders of the writers and editors of the newspapers to direct the mass of this dynamic worlds readers to develop values in the right direction. Hope, this volume will sensitized the readers to the importance of Newspapers in our day to day life.
