

A Handbook to the Study of Natural History for the Use of Beginners (Classic Reprint)

Handbook to lovers of Nature, I wish very heartily to thank all the Contributors who have so kindly enabled me to carry out my idea of putting before the Beginner a clue to the many paths of the somewhat bewildering labyrinth called Natural Science. I hope the following Chapters may overcome some of the difficulties felt by would-be learners, who are often baffled at the beginning of their studies by their ignorance of the right lines on which to work. The Book is not intended to take the place of a Primer; it aims, rather, at being indicative of the possibilities and limitations of many branches of the Science, the Author of each Chapter aspiring to play the part of the Naturalist friend to the mere lover of Nature, in persuading him to gain some certain knowledge of her laws and secrets. Such a description is here set before the Reader, as will enable him to choose for his studies that particular branch for which he has the most inclination and aptitude. I must especially offer my sincere thanks to Sir Mountstuart Grant Duff, for his kindness in writing the Introduction to this Book. May I add that Sir Mountstuart is the Naturalist friend, who, some years ago, persuaded me to take up the study of Botany, for which I shall always owe him a debt of gratitude. ISABEL A. MARGESSON. 63, St. George's Road, S. IF., May, (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)
