Not illustrated. 1874 Excerpt: ... In REV. DR. NORTON. 101 November, 1833, he was dismissed from his charge at his own request. He retired with the most dignified and christian spirit, and contrary to the wishes of a considerable portion of his congregation. Released from professional duties, he afterwards devoted himself almost wholly to the care of his farm on which he had resided for many years. He continued to cherish a warm attachment for the people of his late charge, uniting with the pastors who succeeded him in the administration of the Lords Supper, baptizing the children of parents whom he had baptized in their infancy, and attending funerals, until he at length followed to the grave the last of those who composed the church at the time of his ordination. Dr. Norton was one of the founders of Hamilton College, and was appointed to deliver the Latin Address at the inauguration of President Backus. He was a trustee of the college from its establishment in 1812, to the year 1833, and he was deeply interested in its welfare as long as he lived. During the years 1852-53, he was subject to the attacks of a disease which slowly reduced his strength and finally terminated his life. The manner of his dying was such as could have been desired for him. He passed away without any apparent bodily distress, calmly trusting in the Saviour, and cheered by those consolations which for so long a time he had ministered to others. He died May 10, 1853, aged eighty-seven years. His funeral discourse was preached by the Rev. Robert G. Vermilye, D. D., one of his successors in the pastoral office at Clinton. If now, in addition to this general outline, I may attempt a more minute and full portrait of this venerable man, the lines will be drawn somewhat as follows:--In person, Dr. Norton was of medium s...
