

An Index Rerum to Norfolk Antiquities (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from An Index Rerum to Norfolk Antiquities The following pages do not affect to be a perfect Index to the Archaeology of Norfolk. Such an Index would be an impossibility, and I have not attempted it; but I have taken considerable pains to compile one which will be of some use to myself, if to no one else. The references to mss. Will probably be new to most of my readers. Practically it will serve to some extent as an Index to the Catalogue of the books in the Carrow Library, which is not too easy to consult under subjects. This little book will, I expect, be the last of my Norfolk Indexes. With its two predecessors it makes 785 pages, and they will, I trust, be of use to the rapidly-increasing number of students of Norfolk Archaeology. I am having copies inlaid and interleaved, and propose to post them up with all the additions and corrections I can get, and leave them to the Norfolk and Norwich Archaeological Society for future use. Any corrections and additions will be thankfully received, and I take this opportunity of heartily thanking Mr. L. Bolingbroke and Mr. J. Hooper for the kind way they have gone through the proofs, and for the many additions they have made to my original notes.
