

How to Persuade the Public: Resolutions and Resoluteness

Debate is perhaps the most advanced form of public speaking and the most persuasive discourse in society today. Simply put, debate is interactive argumentation between parties with opposing beliefs. Debate is an inalienable form of discourse today because of its pivotal role in deciding societal matters. Debating is always there to decide controversial issues, especially in parliaments, elections, and international courses of action. The motions and topics explored are real motions that have appeared in both international and domestic (South Korea) high school debate competitions. These motions are topics verified by debate competitions, and are motions that have been handpicked by us because of their impact on society and how these concepts are tied to each and every one of society members lives. The range of topics vary and the book throughout touches on different facets of society, from our families to dictator worn nations, from sports to diplomacy, we picked the topics with the most impact on our very lives and ones that have appeared consistently in debate competitions.
