

Strategic Curriculum Change in Universities: Global Trends (Research into Higher Education)

The curriculum is a live issue in universities across the world. Many stakeholders governments, employers, professional and disciplinary groups and parents express strong and often conflicting views about what higher education should achieve for its students. Many universities are reviewing their curricula at an institutional level, aware that they are in a competitive climate in which league tables encourage students to see themselves as consumers and the university as a product, or even a brand. The move has prompted renewed concern for some central educational questions, about both what is learnt and how. Strategic Curriculum Change explores the ways in which major universities across the world are reviewing their approaches to teaching and learning. It unites institution-level strategy with the underlying educational issues. The book is grounded in a major study of curriculum change in over twenty internationally-focused, research-intensive universities in the UK, US, Australia, The Netherlands, South Africa and Hong Kong. Chapters include: ?Achieving curriculum coherence: Curriculum design and delivery as social practice Assessment in curriculum changeThe whole-of-institution curriculum renewal undertaken by the University of Melbourne, 2005-2011The physical and virtual environment for learningPeople and change: Academic work and leadership ?This book presents a theorised and contextualised approach to the study of the curriculum, and carries on much-needed research on the curriculum in higher education. It is an essential for the collection of all academics at university level, and those involved in policy making, quality assurance and enhancement.
