

Dissertation Review of A Case Study of Adolescent Females Perceptions of Identity in an After-School Book Club

A dissertation is the culminating project of ones doctoral studies. In this dissertation review I provide an overview of the dissertation, account for the questions that guided the study, determine how the author has framed the study, discuss the theories and research the author draws from in a relevant manner, report the methods employed by the author and discuss how those methods align with the research questions, and relay what the author found as a result of the study, as well as the implications of the research. Also included are notable observations I gleaned from my review of the study, and I give an overall assessment of the research.
