Bernini: His Life and His Rome

Sculptor, architect, painter, playwright, and scenographer, Gian Lorenzo Bernini (15981680) was the last of the great universal artistic geniuses of early modern Italy, placed by both contemporaries and posterity in the same exalted company as Leonardo, Raphael, and Michelangelo. And his artistic vision remains palpably through the countless present today, statues, fountains, and buildings that Rome into the Baroque transformed theater that continues to enthrall tourists today.It is perhaps not surprising that this artist who defined the Baroque should have a personal life that itself was, well, baroque. As Franco Mormandos dazzling biography reveals, Bernini was a driven by many passions, possessed of an explosive temper and a hearty sex drive, and he lived a life as dramatic as any of his creations. Drawing on archival sources, letters, diaries, andwith a skepticisma hagiographic account written by Berninis son (who portrays his father as a paragon of virtue and piety), us through Berninis Mormando leads many feuds and love affairs, scandals and sins. He sets Berninis raucous life against a vivid backdrop of Baroque Rome, bustling and wealthy, and peopled by churchmen and bureaucrats, popes politicians, schemes and secrets. The result seductively readable biography, stuffed with stories and teeming with lifeas wild and unforgettable as Berninis art. No one who has been bewitched by the Baroque should miss it.
