Excerpt from History of Arizona, Vol. 7
Indians of Arizona - Apache - First Mention of - Tribal Groups - Aravaipa - Chiricahua - Apache Language Same as Tartar Chinese - Coyotbros - Pinal Coyotero -Pinalenos - Tontos - San Carlos Apache - Gila Apache - Mogollon - Mimbrenos - White Mountain - Tsiltaden. This volume is devoted entirely to the Indians of Arizona. Before 1866 and 1867, many of the Apache tribes were unknown and a large part of their country was a terra incognita. At the time of which we write, 1869-1870, through constant warfare, all the tribes of the Colorado River, and their habitats, had become known, and much progress had been made in the exploration of what was called Apaeheria in Arizona. Many of the hostile tribes had been located and their numbers computed. The military commanders up to General Crook did a great work in this direction. They built roads through the Apache country, kept up a constant fight with the Indians, and paved the way to a great extent, as we shall see, for the subjugation of these tribes by General Crook.
