

World War II: History of World War 2, 1939 - 1945

The Second World War is certainly the biggest conflict that erupted on Earth for they describe this history. It is also the biggest single event in human history and this is reflected in the range and quantity of available literature. There are a wealth of material on the subject of innumerable languages ??around the world. During World War II killed more than fifty million people, hundreds of millions were wounded and were damaged or completely destroyed thousands of cities, towns and villages, including the largest centers of human civilization. If we ask after the cause of the Second World War, we can not omit the first place the previous war - the First World. Did not lose if Germany would be the first World War, would not receive in such a difficult economic situation, it might not carry the humiliating consequences and conditions arising from a peace treaty after the end of the First World War, and Nazism would still only at the edge of the political spectrum and society as it is today.
