

Westminster (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from WestminsterThese papers in their original form first appeared in the Pall Mall Magazine. Additions have been made in some of the chapters, especially in the three chapters entitled The Abbey. As in the book entitled London, of which this is the successor, I do not pretend to offer a History of Westminster. The story of the Abbey Buildings; of the Great Functions held in the Abbey; of the Monuments in the Abbey; may be found in the pages of Stanley, Loftie, Dart, and Widmore. The History of the Houses of Parliament belongs to the history of the country, not that of Westminster. It has been my endeavor, in these pages, (i) to show, contrary to received opinion, that the Isle of Bramble was a busy place of trade long before London existed at all.(2) To restore the vanished Palaces of Westminster and Whitehall.(3) To portray the life of the Abbey, with its Services, its Rule, its Anchorites, and its Sanctuary.(4) To show the connection of Westminster with the first of English printers. And, lastly, to present the place as a town and borough, with its streets and its people.I hope that, with those who have made my London a companion, my Westminster may also be so fortunate as to find equal favor.I must not omit my acknowledgments to the Editors of the Pall Mall Magazine for the costly manner in which they presented these pages.About the PublisherForgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
