

The Denham Tracts: A Collection of Folklore, Reprinted from the Original Tracts and Pamphlets Printed By Denham Between 1846 and 1859, Vol. 1 (Classic Reprint)

The title of this volume is derived from the author of the tracts and leaflets which are reprinted Michael Aislalie Denham. Mr. Denham was a local tradesman in Piers Bridge, and throughout his life he was a diligent collector of the then unconsidered trifles which occupy so much of old peasant thought and life. He collected before Folklore as a subject of study and inquiry was thought of. He printed his collections in local newspapers, stray leaflets, or small pamphlets, and until the Percy Society requested him to compile a volume for them he had no thought, or at all events no chance, of bringing his collections before the public in volume form. At the Time when the Folklore Society was formed in 1878 Mr. Thoms brought before the Council the subject of the Denham Tracts. He had a few of them. Some were deposited in the library of the Society of Antiquaries, some were in the British Museum, and the late Mr. Edward Hailstone had a very good collection, which was sold with his other books after his death. But not one of these several collections was complete. By carefully collating them, however, one with the other, it was possible to get together as complete a collection as by the nature of things could be expected. Mr. Thoms urged the task upon the Council, and mainly through his endeavours the work was proceeded with. Mr. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and do not occur in the book.)
