

History of Ohio Methodism: A Study in Social Science (Classic Reprint)

THERE are points of time in the life of a Church, as well as the individual, when one may look back and feel that something of the past is secured. Whatever has been good or profitable, naturally awakens feelings of gratitude and pleasure. This is emphatically true of the Centennial of Ohio Methodism. The planting and growth of the Church, with its thrilling history, is secured. Her effective methods of work and Scriptural doctrines, formulated to meet all human needs, are secured. The rich heritage of religion and education are bequeathed to us. The noble examples of the pioneer preachers and Church members, inspired as they were with lofty purposes, true devotion, and unsurpassed heroism, are likewise secured. We have entered into the labors of these brave Christian heroes. The gratitude of this generation may be expressed in more earnest efforts to emulate their virtues and to imitate their deeds of valor. The limits of our work do not permit us to sketch, only in a brief manner, a few of the lives among the great number of gifted preachers and noble laymen. Their self-sacrificing devotion and untiring labors read more like romantic stories than real events in actual life. We hope the Church will not permit their memories to be entombed in the fleeting past. For nearly a decade the author has had unequalled opportunities to travel throughout Ohio, and observe the general development of the Church, and gather materials of real historic value.
