

The Franciscan Poets: In Italy of the Thirteenth Century (Classic Reprint)

The two sources of Italian poetry, the sensual and the religious, flow side by side, as is illustrated in the work of St. Francis. How the education of St. Francis prepared him for his ministry. His conversion. His marriage with Lady Poverty and his prayer for her. The wide appeal of his poems. His faith strengthened by illness. His love of humanity and his desire to reveal to them the love of God. His passion for nature illustrated. His ecstatic love for the whole creation found utterance in poetry rather than prose. Quotation. He chooses the same medium to describe his mystic visions. Quotations. These poems became the source of inspiration for all the arts in the succeeding age. 49 CHAPTER III THE FIRST FOLLOWERS OF ST. FRANCIS Brother Pacificus St. Bonaventura Jacomino of Verona The conflicting strains of the Italian life of the Middle Ages The sensual life of the court undermined by the teaching of St. Francis and his followers The early life of Brother Pacificus, the king of verse, and his conversion to the Order of St. Francis The work of St. Bonaventura the theologian His response to the teaching of St. Francis.
