

Life in Morocco (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Life in MoroccoBarbary? Those first impressions, as the gorgeous Est with all its countless sounds and colours, forms and odours, burst upon us; mingled pleasures and disgusto, all new, undreamed of or our wildest dreams enhanced! Those yelling, struggling crowds of boatmen, porters, donkey boys ;guides, thieves, and busy-bodies; clad in mingled finery and tatters; European, native, nondescript; a weird, incongruous medley such as is always produced when East meets West how they did astonish and amuse us! How we laughed (some trembling inwardly) and then, what letters we wrote home IOne-and-twenty years have passed since that expedience entranced the present writer, and although ho hag repeated it as far as possible; in practically every other oriental country, each fresh visit to Morocco bring back somewhat of the glamour of that maiden plunge, and somewhat of that youthful ardour, as the old associations are renewed Nothing he ha seen elsewhere excels Morocco in point of life and colour save Bokhdra; and.About the PublisherForgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
