

Environmental Education and Awareness Manual with Wall Chart: Environmental Degradation and Sustainability K6 to K12 and the General Public

This manual and its wall chart put together a general knowledge of the earth environmental issues, their associated challenges, how they relate and solution plans. This is environmental education made easy, vital to all people across nations. Global awareness about conservation and preservation of earth natural resources, its biodiversity and natural landscape is not left out. The manual and its wall chart stands as the most comprehensive materials justifying the definition of environmental education as early education, education for all and for sustainable development. The UN call about saving the planet earth appears to be falling on deaf ears. This is because of inability of the UN to properly follow up their programs at the grass root regions where member nations are yet to commence environmental education and awareness. This wall chart and its manual contains every bit of environmental and sustainability knowledge required by young school levers and the general public to be environmentally responsible. Hung the wall chart in public places world wide for people to read and ask questions. Some of UN agencies and their roles known to privileged few, are listed in this manual.
