

A Guide to the Museum of Roman Remains of Cirencester (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from A Guide to the Museum of Roman Remains of Cirencester

The late Author of this Guide, Sir Arthur Herbert Church, was Curator of the Corinium Museum from 1870 (while he was Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Agricultural College) until 1879, when he left Cirencester. In 1871 he issued a Third Edition of the existing Guide to the Museum of Roman Remains at Cirencester, revised, enlarged, and partly re-written. This was succeeded in subsequent years by other Editions of the Guide, as the copies at the Museum were sold out. On each occasion opportunity was taken to add information as regards Roman Finds since the previous Edition was issued. The last and Tenth Edition having been exhausted, the present Curator has decided to issue a new one the Eleventh in which he has recorded a few additions to the objects deposited in the Museum. He has scrupulously avoided any alteration of or amendment to the paragraphs recorded by Sir Arthur Church. With the object of indicating the approximate dates of the various objects being deposited, the dates given in the margin indicate the Edition and year of the Guide in which reference is first made thereto. The paragraphs written by Sir Arthur Church narrating the chief events connected with the Roman Conquest of Britain (pp. 3-7), and his explanation of the various terms used in describing Imperial Roman Coins and the designs and marks that may be found upon them (pp. 16-22), are models of conciseness and utility to the student. It is due to the generosity of Sir Arthur Church and Lady Church that the Museum is in the possession of two objects of great interest. One, the fine example of a Roman cinerary urn of glass, which was found at Cirencester about 1765, and was acquired by Sir Arthur Church at the sale in 1893 of the Bateman heirlooms, and is referred to at length under section Glass Objects. The other, the munificent gift of Lady Church to the Museum in 1917 (in memory of her husband) of five gold Roman coins in mint condition. The coins are of the Emperors Valentinianus, A.D.364, Gratianus, A.D.375, and Honorius, A.D.395, and a very interesting contemporary forgery of Valentinianus found in the Market Place, Cirencester. These are shown in Case 6. Due acknowledgment should also be made to the generous gift to the Museum by Mr. T.B. Bravender of his splendid collection of Marked Pottery, Bronze Objects, and Coins, which are stored in Cases at the South-East corner of the Museum. They were mainly found during the excavations in 1879-80 for town drainage. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
