

Early School Leaving and Youth Unemployment

School dropout rates and youth unemployment top social and political agendas throughout Europe. Observers fear that educational failure and chronic joblessness will give rise to a lost generation of young people with seriously diminished prospects. Drawing on a large study funded by the Brussels-based P&V Foundation, Early School Leaving and Youth Unemployment tackles these vexing phenomena. Contributors from a range of disciplines including sociology, economics, education, and labor market studies explore the causes and effects of high dropout rates and youth unemployment. Ultimately, they suggest evidence-based strategies for combating two problems that plague societies across Europe and beyond.
