Fran Rutherford's two-volume Old World Europe (Student Book and Teachers Guide) provides an ideal course for parents who homeschool high school students and for teachers of secondary education who wish to introduce their students to the great books of Western civilization, the best that has been thought and said, in Matthew Arnolds famous phrase. The choice of great books is appropriate, balanced, and coherent—each book illuminating an important facet of Medieval thought and culture and embodying the moral wisdom of the Medieval mind. The course covers Dante Alighieris Divine Comedy, John Miltons Paradise Lost, Beowulf, St. Benedicts Rule, Einhards Life of Charlemagne, Niccolo Machiavellis The Prince, The Song of Roland, Geoffrey Chaucers Canterbury Tales and Miguel de Cervantes Don Quixote - a rich banquet for the mind that integrates history, literature, and philosophy for a beginning humanities student. Comprised of brief but substantive introductions to the authors and to the works, the book then poses simple but penetrating questions about each chapter or major part of the book. It also presents probing questions for further reflection and discussion. The Teachers Guide of course offers the answers to the factual questions, but it provides special insights to address the Questions for Further Thought. The questions and answers are always lucid, straightforward and penetrating. In short, these two volumes provide a bone fide traditional, classical liberal arts education that introduces students to the reality of philosophical or universal truth, to the unchanging natural moral law that explains the nature of tragedy and the events of history. For students to know these perennial truths about human nature and the human condition is the beginning of wisdom—the goal of all true education. This study guide is written for high school curriculum, grades 9 through 12. Its simple question-and-answer format breaks down the barriers to understanding the texts for both student and teacher. Vocabulary development, research topics and frequent Questions for Further Thought, the hallmark of Fran Rutherford's Questions for the Thinker™ Series, are included throughout. A complete answer key is found in the companion volume Teachers Guide. It is recommended that a book be purchased for each student. Not only will it facilitate writing answers for the questions, it will serve for years as a valuable resource for other high school and college classes.
