

Strategies for Teaching Differently: On the Block or Not (Education Finance Association; 18)

This practical, step-by-step teaching approach is based on the latest research on learning and multiple intelligences. Ensure that what you teach isn't going in one ear and out the other, but is committed to students' long-term memory. Change to interactive thinking activities and increase your students' success. Here are the keys to transforming your classroom from teacher-focused to student-focused. Change your mission from students getting the lesson to students learning how to learn. Move your emphasis from filling the time to showing students how to construct knowledge. Find out how to use students' multiple intelligences to help them learn. Create a suitable climate for learning. Leave lecturing behind and raise comprehension. Teach students how to organize and process information. Lower your school's drop-out rate and increase attendance. Help students master difficult concepts using visual representatives.
