

Chinas Tibet?: Autonomy or Assimilation

This groundbreaking book explores Chinas efforts to assimilate Tibet, in the process rewriting Tibetan history to conform to Beijings goals. Warren Smith provides the historical context for understanding the current situation through an overview of Chinas actualas opposed to its promised policies toward Tibet over time. His clear-eyed appraisal of Chinese policy convincingly shows that the PRCs ultimate intention is assimilation rather than autonomy. The author argues that Beijing fears that any genuine autonomy or dialogue with the Dalai Lama will fuel renewed nationalism in Chinas Tibet, as the Chinese leadership calls its possession. The book highlights Chinas past and current propaganda on Tibet to demonstrate Chinas sensitivity and defensiveness regarding the legitimacy of its rule. It traces the history of Sino-Tibetan dialogue to show how China has tried to use it to defuse Tibetan exile and international criticism, while making no concessions in regard to Tibetan autonomy. In the absence of any solution, Smith advocates the promotion of Tibets right to self-determination as the most viable strategy for sustaining international attention and maintaining the most essential elements of Tibetan national identity. Smiths thoroughly informed work will be valuable not only to Tibet experts and students, but also to the larger world of Tibet activists, sympathizers, and others attempting to understand Chinas policies.
